

I involved Elias Nosrati in the course with a new lecture corresponding to his expertise. I also combined populism and democracy topics into one lecture and added a lecture on the commercial determinants of health with a few additional references added to some other lectures. I believe these changes make the course more up-to-date and interesting for students.