Associate Professors of Sociology

1 - 2 permanent position(s) are available at the Department of Sociology and Human Geography for an Associate Professor in Sociology. Applicants who are qualified for full professorship can be promoted after a formal review process once they have taken up their position.

The Department is ranked as the premier academic research institute in sociology in Norway, conducting top international research while offering high quality education for students.

More about the position

The Department seeks a potential scientific leader with clear research visions, educational and administrative skills and the ability to establish and lead research projects. The successful candidate is expected to strengthen both research and education in the sociological discipline at the Department.

Research at the Department is broadly orientated but with a thematic emphasis on: Global challenges, Migration and integration, Cultural and political participation, The Nordic model, Family and the life course, Social inequality, Working life, and Marginalisation. Candidates for the position should have research experience that are compatible with this profile. The successful candidate must be able to contribute to the further strengthening of one or more of these areas and of the research community as a whole at the Department.

Candidate must have teaching qualifications that are compatible with the Department's research profile, and must also be able to teach sociological theory and/or methods at all levels. The successful candidate will be required to teach, supervise and contribute to examinations at all levels of the study programmes. The position also involves administrative and other duties in accordance with applicable rules.

The Department's overall needs will be part of the considerations made in the hiring process. Teaching abilities are an important factor in the evaluation of candidates. A proven ability to succeed in competitive, international arenas is an advantage.

Applicants who do not have basic pedagogical competencies must acquire such within the first two years of employment. The working language and primary language of instruction is Norwegian, while some courses are given in English. If the candidate who is selected for the position does not speak Norwegian or another Scandinavian language, he or she will be required to learn Norwegian within two years.

Residence in the greater Oslo area is expected.

Qualification requirements

Pursuant to applicable regulations, the applicants will be evaluated based on their documented academic qualifications as well as qualifications in teaching, management and administration.

- The candidate must have a PhD degree in Sociology or equivalent, and a demonstrated ability to contribute to the continued development of sociology as a discipline at the Department through research activities, publications and education.
- In the evaluation of candidates for the position, emphasis will be placed on research and international publications the last five years as well as the candidate's future research potential. In the assessment of publications, originality, quality and scope will be emphasized.
- Relevant pedagogical and other experience should be well documented in a teaching portfolio that addresses students' learning, development over time, a research attitude to teaching and learning, and a collegial attitude and practice.
